Cornell honors Cohasset graduate, teacherBy Abigail Adams correspondentEach year, Cornell top performing graduating seniors to join an elite group known as the Merrill Presidential Scholars.

This year, one of Cohas-set's own was selected to receive this year's coveted award.Not only was Charlotte Barszewski able to bring home a scholarship to share with the community as a result of herachievements at Cornell, but the recent college graduate was given a chance to honor the high school teacher she deemed had the most impact on her success as a student.
For her, Laura Humphrey was the preeminent factor in her success as a budding young professional.When it came to tackling her weakest subjects,
"Mrs. Humphrey really stood out to me because she was the one teacher who always encouraged me to challenge myself," Barszewski recalled. "Shewasn't one of those teachers who would tell me it wasn't my strong point and just get by."Barszewski admittedly had to work hard in school, "but I think I enjoy that process," she said. "If there was an opportunity to do something more, I wanted it."The encouragement offered by Humphrey both in and out of the classroom left an imprint on Barszewski as she blossomed as a student.

Car goes into duck pond during Arts Festival

Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

Police said it was literally a miracle that no bystanders were injured when an 83-year-old Plymouth man apparently lost control of the 2008 Mercury Grand Marquis he was driving and ended up in Meetinghouse Pond in the middle of the Festival on the Common around 3:30 p.m. today (Sunday).

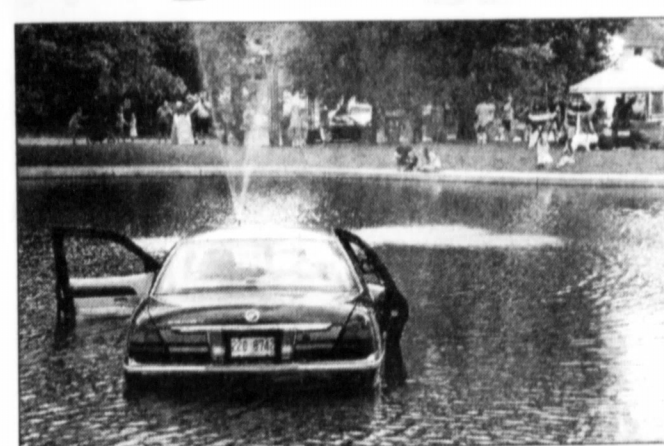

At 3:30 p.m. Sunday (June 18), police received a report of a motor vehicle crash into the duck pond. A couple of bystanders and officers went into the pond to assist the driver and three passengers out of the car.

Police Chief Bill Quigley said the pond is about three to four feet deep so no one was under water.

Quigley said the driver, Richard E. Foster, 83, of 81 Main St., Plymouth, appeared very confused and may have suffered a medical episode. Foster is being summoned to court on criminal charges including driving to endanger and failure to drive in marked lanes, he said.

Quigley explained that due to the severity of the accident, police had probable cause to seek the charges as they were unsure of why the man veered off the road and whether there were underlying causes. The decision whether the charges will be issued is up to the clerk magistrate at court.

At the request of the police, the Registry of Motor Vehicles revoked Foster's license as an immediate threat pending an evaluation of his fitness to drive.

Foster was transported to the hospital by Cohasset ambulance. Foster's passengers, a 28-year-old Florida woman, a 30-year-old Florida woman, and a 69-year-old Braintree woman, were all shaken up and were evaluated at the scene by Hull paramedics. They were taken to the police station where two of the three were subsequently taken to the hospital with minor injuries.

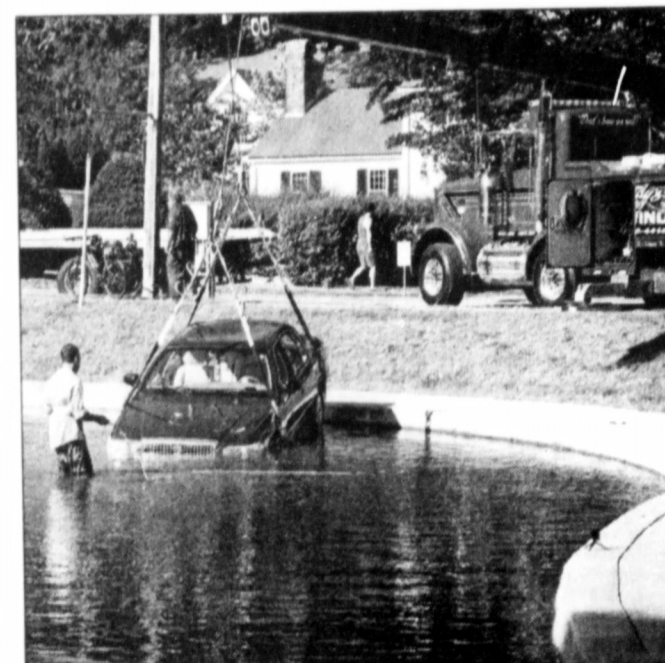

Police said Foster was traveling on Highland Avenue when he went onto Brewster Trail off Highland Avenue, turned back, crossed a yard, then crossed Highland Avenue traveling over the sidewalk, which is on the common side of the street, and down the embankment into the pond. He and passengers were attempting to leave the festival at the time.

"It was a miracle that he did not hit anyone," Quigley said. A heavy-duty wrecker with a crane was called to remove the car. The car was lifted up and out of the pond and common itself would not be damaged, police said.

The annual Festival on the Common, hosted by the South Shore Arts Center, attracts upwards of 10,000 visitors over the Fathers Day weekend. Years ago, toy boat races were held on the pond during the event.

There were many witnesses to the crash, police said.

Whip-It victim taken to hospital after inhaling

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

Whip-It victim

A 17-year-old Rockland girl was taken to the hospital on Thursday (June 15) around 3:50 p.m. after Stop & Shop called to report she had been observed inhaling nitrous oxide from Reddi-wip whipped cream containers by holding the cans upright.

When officers arrived the girl had gone through 12 cans in the dairy aisle. The whipped cream was valued at $35.

Police explained the practice is dubbed, Whip-It, and is harmful to the brain. The store was concerned about the girl, who was showing signs of impairment, and was afraid she was going to drive. Her mother was called and went directly to the hospital, police said. Stop & Shop was not interested in pursuing charges, police said.

OUI arrest

A 59-year-old Hull man was charged with drunken driving after he hit a utility pole at the intersection of S. Main and Summer streets by St. Anthony's on Saturday (June 17) around 11:22 p.m.

Police said Orazio V. Lattanzi of 1014 Avalon Dr., Hull, was driving a 2016 Ford Edge on South Main toward the right and hit the wooden pole, breaking it.

Police said Lattanzi was exhibiting signs of intoxication and failed a series of field sobriety tests. He was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol; negligent operation of a motor vehicle; and failure to drive in marked lanes. His car was towed and he was not injured, police said.

National Grid was called to the scene to replace the pole that had numerous wires.

School bus

A school bus driver reported that a 2010 Jeep Wrangler illegally passed the bus that was pulled over at Atlantic Avenue and Howard Gleason Road on Monday afternoon (June 12). Police caught up with the driver, who is a 17-year-old Cohasset teen, at Sandy Beach. He denied the infraction. Police said the boy, whose passenger was another 17-year-old Cohasset teen, might not have understood the rules but he does now. The School Resource Officer was handling any follow-up.

Solicitor

Police did not catch up with a door-to-door roofing sales solicitor reported by a Lothrop Lane resident on Monday afternoon (June 12) as not having an ID.

Police said this person may not be involved but there are some roofing and paving scams occurring this time of year. They remind residents that solicitors working for for-profit companies need to register with the police. They are required to wear a permit with their photo on a lanyard around their neck so it is clearly visible.

Ogling the girls

On Tuesday afternoon (June 13), a neighbor called to report that workers across the street had ogled a group of young girls that walked by. An officer went to the site and spoke with the workers. The resident who hired them had been monitoring their work and did not observe any inappropriate behavior.

9-1-1 hoax

A 10-year-old boy, who was home alone, was apparently testing 9-1-1 and when the dispatcher picked up and then he invented an elaborate story that tied up two police officers on a wild goose chase for close to an hour during a severe spring storm with thunder and hail.

The incident occurred around 6:45 p.m. on Tuesday (June 13). The boy told the dispatchers he was seeing colors before he hung up. The address was checked and police went to the home but there was no answer. The dispatcher, in the meantime, called the boy back who said he lived at another address so the officers went there and talked to that resident who was not involved.

The dispatcher asked the boy to look at any mail in the house for his address and provide a license plate for the car in the driveway.

The boy's mother then came home and took the phone. Police said she was mortified. She had left her son alone for about 45 minutes as a test to see if he could be responsible. He apparently panicked after the dispatcher picked up his 9-1-1 call, police said.

Rancid smell

An employee emptying trash last week by the gas station at Stop & Shop reported an extra heavy bag with a rancid smell. As it turned out someone dumped their household garbage in there.

Suspicious person

A concerned caller reported a man who was smoking that they were unfamiliar with near the school bus stop on Elm Street by Stevens Lane. Investigation showed the man who is 43 was taking care of his mother in the Harborview Apartments. He was going to the edge of the street to smoke so he was away from the apartment complex.

B&E in progress

An Atlantic Avenue man called police on Friday morning (June 17) around 12:11 a.m. to report that his alarm system had alerted him that a door had opened to the garage.

The resident looked out the window and could see a man around 5 ft. 10 in. with a thin build, possible hoodie and shorts. He shouted and the subject took off. The K-9 unit was called to the scene and tracked the man through backyards but lost the scent on Atlantic Avenue.

Nothing was taken but the subject did enter the garage through a side door. The incident is under investigation.

MVA

There was yet another accident last week on Chief Justice Cushing Highway (3A) and Beechwood Street. Police said a 2014 Dodge SUV, operated by a 72-year-old Cohasset woman, was traveling north on 3A when she attempted a left onto Beechwood Street. She failed to yield and hit a 2005 Ford Explorer, operated by a 73-year-old Scituate woman, who was headed south. The Explorer had a passenger who is a 75-year-old Scituate man. All were transported to the hospital and the vehicles were towed.

The driver of the Explorer is being summoned to court for unlicensed operation as investigation showed her license expired in April. The driver of the Dodge was cited for failure to grant the right of way, police said.

A tractor-trailer, driven by a 42-year-old Fall River man, backed into a light pole in the parking lot at Tedeschi Plaza off Chief Justice Cushing Highway (June 17) around 8:45 a.m. The truck did not knock the pole over but made a crease in it. Police notified the management company of the plaza which is out of Middleboro.

COHASSET FARMERS MARKET

Meet Jenn Gilman at Rolling Roost

THE ROLLING ROOST FOOD TRUCK: Meet Jenn Gilman! The Market welcomed its first food truck this season. Jenn of the Rolling Roost brings fresh, home cooking to the Common each week. Named in hopes that folks would relax and "hang out," Jenn lives nearby in Hingham, with a small backyard farm of her own.

As the newest member to the Market's Café area, Jenn offers ready-made foods and snacks with a healthy twist including veggie burgers, black beans, sweet potatoes, avocado toast, strawberry spinach salad, grilled Cuban, Thai steak burrito and her famous Buffalo chicken grilled cheese sandwich.

One recent customer ordered one of each item on the menu as a Market Take-out dinner for his family that night. Enjoy a bit of Jenn's creations at one of the tables located by her truck in the Café area or on a blanket on the Common. Welcome Rolling Roost!

COMMUNITY: The Rodeo is coming to town! The Wheelhouse Rodeo Series begins June 29th for eight weeks every Thursday at 6 p.m. on the Common, kicking off with Cohasset's own Wheelhouse Rodeo. All performances are free, open to the public and handicap accessible.

NOW OPENING: Would you like to ring the Opening Bell of the Market? If you,

Sail Boston chose Wheelhouse Rodeo original for 2017's Theme Song

"Tall Ship and a Star," written by Wheelhouse Rodeo founder, Joe Joyce, was chosen as the theme song for this year's Sail Boston event. "The moving, lyrical theme coupled with the band's unique nautical sound made this an easy choice for us," said David Balfour, Director of Special Projects with Conventures, Inc., the Sail Boston event planner since the event's creation in 1992. "Wheelhouse Rodeo and Joe's great song were the perfect addition to this great maritime experience."

The band closed out a long set with "Tall Ships" on Fish Pier right in front of the tall ships' berths on Sunday. They also headlined the Sunset Salute Closing Ceremonies on the last evening of event. "I could not be more excited!" said Joe, "Not only is this a great honor and validation of my and the bands' dedication, but playing to a great crowd, in front of the ships, on Father's Day with my family, created a memory of a lifetime."

Joe has also written a song entitled, "Fort Revere Revival," to celebrate the ongoing efforts to restore Fort Revere in Hull, MA, and keep it graffiti free. "Joe has a unique ability to blend historic themes with modern bluegrass sensibilities to create emotional and festive tunes," said Peter Richardson, who founded the band with Joe in 2012.

Peter and Joe have written about 25 songs so far, and the band's first CD, "Chances," will be released this summer. While they have only co-written two songs together, "we really appreciate each other's talents and style and are always excited to help each other with their craft," added Joe.

Currently the band consists of Joe singing lead and playing ukulele, Peter sings harmony, and occasionally recorder, Dave Sebestyen plays the bass, John Jackson on guitar and vocals, and Joel Meginsky, a part time Hull resident who plays double bass with the Springfield Symphony, plays lap steel and fiddle.

—The band returns home next Thursday, June 29, at 6 p.m. on the Cohasset Common. Check out their Facebook page to find other summer dates and alerts to Sandy or Basking's beach jams: www.facebook.com/wheelhouserodeo

Wilson House Museum open for summer

The Cohasset Historical Society is pleased to announce that The Wilson House Museum is now open for the summer. This was the home of Captain John Wilson, whose household included ten children. Built by David Nichols in 1810, the Wilson house has undergone some restoration, but remains the last unaltered 19th century home in Cohasset Village. The furnishings, artifacts and other articles reflect the every day life of a home in the 1800s. The building is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and can be visited Wednesday through Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Historical Society's adjacent building, The Maritime Museum will be closed this summer for restoration

Ideas sought for town's 250th anniversary

The town of Cohasset will celebrate its 250th anniversary in 2020 and is seeking input from residents on plans for the celebration. Activities are in the works to commemorate our founding, celebrate our 250th, and dedicate legacy items for future generations. "The 250th anniversary is a historical event that we want our entire community to be a part of, including the planning process," said Joy Schiffmann, Chairperson, Cohasset 250th Anniversary Committee. "We encourage everyone to take a moment and share how they would like to commemorate, celebrate and ways to dedicate for future generations." Residents can share via drop boxes at Town Hall and the Paul Pratt Memorial library or email ideas to celebrate @

Mittens is a cute, social teenager

By Joanne Berman

This week Hull Seaside Animal Rescue is featuring an adorable black and white female named Mittens. Her temperament is affectionate and social. Her former owner moved out of state and sadly, could not take her along.

You would never believe she is in her teen years! She is very playful and just wants to be loved.

Upon meeting Mittens, she immediately started purring and pushing her head into my leg. She will take a belly rub any time!

Mittens is mostly black with white markings on the tips of her feet and chest. She is spayed and up to date with shots.

Mittens is a love and will be a great companion in a home where she can sit on your lap, enjoy regular play time, and sleep by your side.

You can learn more about Mittens, as well as the other cats and kittens we have available for adoption, by visiting us online at www.hsar.org or by visiting us at 487 Nantasket Avenue in Hull. Open hours are Monday nights, 6:30 to 7:30 pm, and Saturdays, 2 to 3 pm. If these times are not convenient for you, special appointments can be made by calling our adoption coordinator, Judy, at 781-534-4902.

Thank you to our volunteers who helped out at our Spring "No Flea" Flea Market. It was a huge success because of everyone of you...and you know who you are!

Garden Tour benefits Paragon Carousel

The Friends of Paragon Carousel is hosting its annual Secret Garden Tour on Sunday, June 25, from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. Tickets are $20 in advance and $25 the day of the tour. The Secret Garden Tour is held each summer as a benefit for the historic Paragon Carousel.

This year's Secret Garden tour will host several secret garden venues throughout the seaside peninsula of Hull. As an additional feature most gardens on the tour will host an Artist in the Garden. Artists will be working from life, capturing the essence of their unique location using a variety of media, including oil, watercolor, acrylics, mixed media and shell art.

Enjoy the art of some local favorites from the Hull Artists (association) Marianne F. Buckley Curran, Michael Domina, J. Marshall Dyke, Bridget Foster Reed, Trish Turner and Rita Walsh. On the morning of the event, every ticket holder must stop by the Carousel to pick up the official tour Program Guide and map. The Guide is the only way the garden locations are revealed and ticket holders refer to it all day as they find each of the gardens.

To purchase tickets, stop by the Carousel, call Sharon McNamee at (781) 925-0472 or visit: paragoncarousel.com. The Paragon Carousel is located at 205 Nantasket Ave.

DOG TALES

Rudy is ready to start a new chapter

Hi, I'm Rudy and I really am due for some good luck in my life.

I'm 10 years old. I was abandoned by my previous owner and had to fend for myself on the streets of Norwell. And let's face it, there's really not that much to eat on the streets of Norwell.

I was suffering from a really bad skin infection and a really bad ear infection all at the same time, so all that freedom wasn't exactly a walk in the park (I love walks in the park!).

Luckily, I was brought to the shelter, and I am finally feeling better. I'm a pretty friendly little guy. I like other dogs and I like people, even kids as long as they aren't too little (those tiny unpredictable

OUR VIEW

Goals and objectives

If Lisa Ugialoro ever gives up her gig as Cohasset HR director — she has a future as an orchestra conductor. Ugialoro was able to direct the Board of Selectmen with its five opinionated members to perform together — even singing from the same sheet of music — in terms of setting up “smart” goals and objectives that are specific, measurable, achievable, attainable, realistic, and relevant all within a time frame.

Willcutt Commons with its excellent air conditioning — as opposed to the oft-stuffy selectmen’s office at Town Hall — provided the setting for the casual, brainstorming session Tuesday, complete with deli-wraps, cookies and soft drinks.

In about 2-½ hours, Ugialoro had successfully directed the board through a list of goals related to planning and facilities, communication, organizational management, technology and financial. “Focus on the big goal, we do not want to get involved in a conversation of how things will get done or how specifics will get done,” she told the board. “Focus on what you want to achieve by next June. I do not want to stop conversation but if you want to get this done and get out of here as quickly as possible — focus on the big picture.” Amazingly, our selectmen followed her directions to the best of their ability and tackled a range of objectives from the Town Hall project to creating a better “org” chart for town government to holding discussions with the relevant town boards on planning and zoning initiatives.

The evening was short on specifics but laid out a road-map for the months ahead. Stay tuned to your Mariner for updates and expanded stories as selectmen tackle their goals and objectives in fiscal 2018.

Recycling committee

Cohasset has a plethora of town committees but one that faded away some time ago was the recycling committee. We think it is time to repopulate the committee and give it a fresh charge.

The timing would be perfect as the committee could work with the South Shore Recycling Cooperative and DPW Director Kevin Joyce as they take a look at freshening up the RTR with new signs. The committee could also regularly report on how we are doing with recycling and with education initiatives (maybe even a regular column). Recycling can offset the cost of hauling trash away. It is also really good for the environment.

As a Green Community — Cohasset should be a well educated and top recycling town.

Amazingly, our selectmen followed her

Subscriptions: $75.95* for up to 52 weeks in town. $96.95* out of town.

*Offer valid for in-town delivery within the newspaper distribution area for new subscribers only. A new subscriber is a household that has not had an active subscription in the past 30 days. The advertised price for the offer includes the one-time $5.95 activation fee for new subscribers but does not include the charges for any premium editions for all subscribers. Premium editions are published to provide additional information and value to our readers. You agree that you will be charged an additional $2.00 for each and every premium edition published and delivered to you during your subscription period, in addition to the cost of your subscription. The length of your subscription will be shortened by the publication of premium editions if those premium editions are delivered to you during your subscription, unless you elect to be billed separately for premium editions by contacting Customer Service at 1-888-697-2737. Thus, unless you elect to be billed separately an additional $2.00 for each premium edition, you agree that the length of your subscription will be shortened in proportion to the value of the number of premium editions published and delivered to you during your subscription period. For example, if you select a subscription of up to 12 weeks at a cost of $48.00, and two premium editions are published and delivered to you during that time, the length of your subscription will be shortened by 2 weeks because the weekly cost of the subscription is $4.00 per week and the premium edition charges total $4.00. Depending upon the length of your subscription and the timing of the publication and delivery of premium editions, you will not be charged for any premium editions if none are published and delivered to you during your subscription. As such, in that case only, the length of your subscription will not be shortened. The timing of the publication and delivery of premium editions are variable. There will be no more than eight premium editions published in the 2017 calendar year. Please see <https://explore.mypaperday.com/premiumeditions> for examples for all premium editions. Advocating for 100 percent local clean energy

The following was provided by Sustainable South Shore:

Steve Wenner, Debbie Cook and Ned and Charis Tebbetts of Cohasset recently attended the second quarter meeting of Sustainable South Shore, a thriving multi-town advocacy group committed to helping South Shore residents conserve energy, protect the environment, and live sustainable lives.

The meeting of representatives from Quincy and Milton to Plymouth was held at Cohasset's Holly Hill Farm and included a potluck dinner and tour of the farm. The evening launched an initiative to advocate for 100 percent local clean energy on the South Shore.

Meeting attendees were treated to a tour of Holly Hill's 140-acre, certified organic farm by the farm's Executive Director, Debbie Cook spoke to the group about what she learned about biochar on her trip to Peru and how biochar relates to stabilizing climate. As she explained, biochar is a form of carbon, made by burning organic material at high heat without oxygen, resulting in a porous, charcoal-like substance.

Cindy Prentice. The group visited the greenhouses, historic barns, and education gardens; and learned about some of the farm's innovative and sustainable practices.

Debbie Cook spoke to the group about what she learned about biochar on her trip to Peru and how biochar relates to stabilizing climate. As she explained, biochar is a form of carbon, made by burning organic material at high heat without oxygen, resulting in a porous, charcoal-like substance. This method was first developed thousands of years ago by indigenous people of the Amazon region. The knowledge was lost 600 years ago, and has only recently been rediscovered.

Biochar can be used to drastically improve soil fertility, protect plants against drought, remove toxins from soils, and help combat climate change by sequestering carbon within the soil.

Sustainable South Shore president Judith Van Hamm of Hull went over the specifics of the new local clean energy project with the group, introducing the attendees to each other to share their expertise.

Representatives from each of the South Shore towns will use the Local Clean Energy Checklist developed by the Mass Climate Action Network and Mass Power Forward to help understand how much progress their town has made toward energy efficiency, developing clean energy sources, encouraging sustainable transportation, planning for sea level rise, and other sustainable actions. The group is posting the results on its website: sustainableouthshore.org, and will use the information gathered to plan and advocate for specific actions each town can make to move toward increased sustainability. Watch for updates on actions in Cohasset.

Among other specific provisions, the bill would:

■ Require towns to allow dense, multi-family, market rate development as of right.

■ Require towns to allow accessory apartments in single family homes as of right.

■ Create a program of certifying communities that will encourage towns to establish policies to create more “workforce housing,” economic growth, and green development.

■ Provide benefits to “certified communities,” including preferential consideration when funding for infrastructure maintenance and development.

■ Require towns to create master plans, to update them on a regular basis, and to coordinate them with neighboring towns and regional planning agencies.

■ Create a new class of subsidized housing for middle-income residents.

■ Simplify the zoning variance and special permit processes.

■ Make the process for adopting zoning changes less demanding.

■ Open towns up to lawsuits for zoning by-laws that do not meet certain state guidelines for housing development.

The Forum began with each of the four panelists giving their thoughts on the bill. Senator O'Connor, who has voted against the bill, stated that he believes it is time for zoning reform since the last

This effort to grow micro-greens, which uses soil, is in addition to our efforts to grow crops until their full maturity in our farm fields. We are looking for ways to expand our growing opportunities and use unique methods to provide more healthy food to more people.

production and joy to those who participate.

On a recent Saturday, I was at the Hatherly School in Scituate with my daughter Nadia, who had done the math in her head calculating how many perimeter feet we needed for their new, garden fence (88 feet).

The Hatherly farm garden has doubled its size in the last year and a half, from four to eight raised beds. The local deer have also noticed this increase and have made some visits, so a fence was needed, also adding a working, outdoor classroom feel that will continue, appealing destination for teachers, students and families in the summer who wish to work, cultivate and grow.

The peas are climbing the trellis, the garlic is forming scapes and every grade level is participating in growing curriculum-related crops in their garden level beds. There ought to be enough garlic for garlic bread next Fall in the cafeteria. There will be plenty of potatoes for the future 3rd graders to harvest, along with carrots, and beets.

This micro-farm uses the same principles as the organic farmers at Holly Hill. There are even new gutters and downspouts attached to the garden supply shed to catch and retain water for watering the aforementioned crops.

This first-in-Scituate rain barrel water catchment system is already in place at a few Hingham elementary schools and goes a long way to teach about the importance of water as a valuable, precious resource. These types of micro-farming endeavors are occurring at over 30 schools on the South Shore, each meriting their own article and accolades, for community members and folks who are helping, to responsibly grow more food. There are many micro-farms and shoots that are growing and making a positive impact.

Many examples of farming on a small, micro scale are bringing farming, responsible, agricultural practices, stewardship for the land and healthy food, to a macro community.

COMMENTARY

Forum airs proposed zoning reform in Senate bill

By Jerry Seelen

Zoning reform, regional planning, home rule, housing development, sounds like a pretty dry group of topics for public discussion, doesn't it? Four panelists and a full house of attendees at a public forum on State Senate Bill #81 beg to disagree. The forum was held Tuesday evening (June 6) in the Whiting Room at the Hingham Public Library to discuss the bill, also known as "An Act Promoting Housing and Sustainable Development."

The panelists included State Senator Patrick O'Connor, State Representative Joan Meschino, former Hingham Selectman Laura Burns, and Hingham Planning Board member Gary Tondorf-Dick, and the room was filled to capacity with interested residents from Hingham, Hull, Norwell, and Cohasset. The forum was filmed by HCAM for upcoming broadcast.

Senate Bill #81 (S-81) is a wide-ranging bill currently being considered in the Massachusetts State Senate. A similar bill (H-2420) also is being considered in the State House of Representatives. The Senate bill would mandate changes to local zoning by-laws to allow faster, denser development, particularly for multi-family housing. It would change the way zoning by-laws are amended and enforced. It also would encourage a shift of authority for land use planning from local control to more regional control.

Among other specific provisions, the bill would:

■ Require towns to allow dense, multi-family, market rate development as of right.

■ Require towns to allow accessory apartments in single family homes as of right.

■ Create a program of certifying communities that will encourage towns to establish policies to create more “workforce housing,” economic growth, and green development.

■ Provide benefits to “certified communities,” including preferential consideration when funding for infrastructure maintenance and development.

■ Require towns to create master plans, to update them on a regular basis, and to coordinate them with neighboring towns and regional planning agencies.

■ Create a new class of subsidized housing for middle-income residents.

■ Simplify the zoning variance and special permit processes.

■ Make the process for adopting zoning changes less demanding.

major reform was in 1975. However, he thinks that the bill in question is too lengthy and too complex, and attempts to make reforms with a one-size-fits-all approach that is not sensitive to the needs of individual communities. He thinks that the bill has not been well vetted by the Commonwealth's cities and towns, and the potential economic, social, and cultural impacts have not been well defined. He also thinks that much of the bill's language is too broad and vague, and would encourage corresponding law suits from developers seeking to take advantage of its vagueness.

Taking a different view, both Representative Meschino, who is listed as one of the legislators petitioning for the adoption of the bill, and former Selectman Burns, believe that the bill will promote economic development through the production of workforce housing and the streamlining of the local permitting processes. They believe that a certain amount of land use planning at the regional level, which is encouraged by the bill, will result in better and more coordinated regional development and growth, and that local communities should be rewarded by the State for thinking and acting regionally; however, they both emphasized support for continuing to keep most land use planning and zoning activities at the local level.

Meschino also said that the bill needs significant fine-tuning; she noted that the accessory apartment provision would be particularly controversial in her home town of Hull. She believes that the various Senate and House review committees will eliminate S-81's less desirable features and create a bill capable of wide public support. Meschino is also a co-sponsor of the related House bill, H-2420.

Ms. Burns spoke from the perspective of a former Selectman, rather than as a planning or zoning expert. While supporting the overall goals of the bill, she expressed a concern about its length and complexity, and she wondered if it would be better to do small sections of the bill one at a time rather than the one comprehensive bill. She stated her belief that we all the need to think not just about our neighborhoods or towns as we consider these types of reforms, but also about our wider regional, state and national communities as well.

Mr. Tondorf-Dick stated that in Hingham we already have everything the bill is trying to promote, and that it didn't happen by accident. He pointed to the Hingham Master Plan, and the strong Zoning By-Law, as effective tools that have allowed reasonable economic development while minimizing negative impacts on the community. He believes that change should continue to be initiated, reviewed, and approved locally, and that new standards and requirements mandated by regional or state authorities could have unintended adverse impacts on individual cities and towns.

Following the panelists' opening remarks, audience members offered a number of detailed questions and comments. One questioner called the bill “a mess” and wondered why the legislature wouldn't seek to simplify, rather than complicate, our lives.

Cohasset Planning Board member Clark Brewer expressed support for joint planning efforts among neighboring towns; Senator O'Connor pointed to the Union Point project as a good example of multi-jurisdiction planning efforts, and he noted that this project has proceeded without the benefit of the provisions of S-81.

A local attorney expressed concern about the possibility of years of lawsuits that might be needed to clarify the new zoning rules, and Representative Meschino agreed that the bill needs improvement. One audience member referred to S-81 as “Chapter 40B on steroids,” and wondered how much the population of Hingham might grow as a result of this bill; none of the panelists would hazard a guess.

Richard Merritt, former Norwell Selectman, said he thought it unfair to impose radical new requirements on mature communities like Norwell or Hingham where neighborhoods better than regional or state agencies do. He thinks that there is a significant risk of loss in property values if S-81 is passed. Another audience member expressed concern about the housing boom in Boston, and wondered whether encouraging more suburban housing would create an unsustainable housing bubble.

Hingham resident Bonnard Fage asked the last question of the evening. While noting that Hingham has experienced significant commercial and residential growth over the past 15 years, he stated that our Zoning and Planning Boards have done a great job preserving the character of our community, and he asked: “Why do we need zoning reform at all?” While the panelists each had different views on this question, it was clear that the discussion could continue well past the Library closing time.

The Hingham Republican Town Committee was pleased to sponsor this forum, and hopes to sponsor more such forums on public policy issues in the future.

Where my thoughts have no name

Well here we are, at the end of June. Summer has begun, school has ended and another group of kids from Cohasset will be soon heading out around the country to go to college. Seriously, where does the time go?

It's been a bit of a slow year on the 'Porch' with regards to producing and sharing award winning columns; thanks to everyone who's inquired about the limited number of 'Views'. I'd been considering taking a sabbatical to write a novel, which my contract with the Mariner clearly stipulates that I can do.

However, it was made clear that if I did, the corporate perks that have been bestowed upon me would be transferred to the “Down by the Seaside” team. Well, needless to say, I can't be having my Gatehouse Media corporate credit card or my Gatehouse Media Uber account taken away, so I'm back to share another round of thoughts.

A big change has come to downtown Cohasset. After spoiling Cohasset for the past few years with the best damn cupcakes around, Baked has closed its doors. A heart-felt message on the Baked Facebook page explains why. While so many of us hate to see this, the most appropriate reaction is, “Thank you so much for your hard work & delicious treats, we hope to see you again soon.”

Rumor has it that a coffee shop will soon be occupying 24 South Main Street. Oh good, Cohasset needs another coffee shop. Maybe we could get another pizza shop too.

I wonder if Cohasset had a pizza-off, which of the seven (by my count) establishments would win?

Parents, have you heard of Olivia Vella a seventh-grader from Queen Creek, Arizona? If you haven't I strongly suggest you Google “Arizona middle schooler asks ‘Why am I not good enough?’” and prepare to be memorized by her words and delivery of a poem she wrote for class.

My first round of being a “student passenger” has come to an end as our son Andrew is now a licensed driver. When I am older and looking back, I am sure the memory of the two kids driving off to school for the first time will firmly etched in my brain.

We're now a three car family. For years I have equated the process of buying a car with having an IRS audit while getting a root canal; no longer. I cannot say enough positive things about our experience at S&E Auto Sales in Weymouth. No hassle, no haggling, no stress and no complaints. The experience was so good; we ended up with not one but two cars. Unfortunately, neither was a Delorean equipped with a flux capacitor.

Today (Friday) marks the last day of school. What's the over/under on the number of movies shown in class in the past week?

Congratulations to Connor Curran, who spent the past year contributing to the Mariner and the rest of class of 2017, may your next step in your life be joyous, stimulating, memorable and productive.

Allow me to also say congratulations to the Cohasset High School Girls Lacrosse Team who won the Div. II title last weekend. The third sentence in the Patriot Ledger read “This is the best feeling ever,” said Cohasset High defender Megan McElgunn, one of only four seniors on the Skippers girls' lacrosse team, moments after Cohasset won the 2017 Division 2 state championship, 14-6, over Walpole. It seems like was only a few years ago when the first knock on the door the day we moved in was from 3rd grader Megan McElgunn and a few others wanting to see if our kids could come out to play.

Megan has always had the gift to make others smile; I'm extremely excited for her and her teammates.

Now that school is over, our kids are out of here for a few weeks. Our daughter is off to camp, and our son is off to the Appalachian Service Project heading down to West Virginia to help others. This will be the first time in 16+ years that we'll have no kids at home for more than a single night. Thank goodness we have a puppy that needs walking, or we might think we could actually sleep in.

So far, life as a dog owner has been a success. Taking the pooch for walks in the Whitney Woods has been a pure joy. The beauty of our town seems limitless at times.

Another thing that sometimes appears to be limitless is how so many smart and well-to-do people can be so self-conscious that they can't offer up simple gestures of kindness and respect. I had intended to write a whole column addressing a particular incident that has been bugging me, but in the end I talked myself out of it.

We were at JJ's the other night and the guy in front of me who got out of a big brand new Suburban placed an order for four or five things that he kept changing. The girls behind the counter went with the flow and got him everything that he wanted. The bill was a little under $23 dollars. When he got it his change back, he pocketed it all. Apparently, he needs it for the car payment.

Did you know that Stars in Hingham has a pinball machine? I love pinball.

Flannel Friday is the name of Harpoon's autumn beer. Silly name, great beer. This particular post is meant to be a huge hint to the local establishments. If you happen to be a local establishment, please let me know if you get Flannel Friday on tap. I will both come to your establishment to enjoy a cold beverage and suggest others do so as well.

Last year I pressed to you all that the player to watch on the Red Sox would be third baseman Travis Shaw. While good, his play was overshadowed by Mookie Betts and Andrew Benintendi and Big Papi. During the off season he was traded to the Brewers. This year Shaw is hitting close to .300, a dozen homers and over forty RBIs. Combined, the six players who have played 3rd for the Sox, have hit a combined .199 with 7 homers and 23 RBIs. Third base is a problem for the Sox.

The Good Guy Award in Cohasset has to go to Steve Sheffield. A group of high school boys have had the chance to compete all spring against other schools in the area in Ultimate Frisbee. Steve (or as the team of kids call him “Sheff”) does not have a kid on the team, rather he's simply volunteering with the kids because he enjoys the game and because he's a good guy. Can't wait for his kids to reach an age where he can coach them, he's going to love it.

It's always great to see the Music Circus tent up.

Sunday will mark the 36th time I will attend a U2 concert. 36 times, some might say I have a bit of addiction issue. Wish I could properly convey the joy I have seeing this band in concert. It's kind of like that feeling I get attending that first game each season at Fenway, only exponentially greater.

U2 has released 13 studio albums over four decades; pretty impressive until you realize that the Beatles released 12 studio albums in nine years.

I was originally going to do an entire column focused on ranking U2's albums, but aside from me, I figured only a few of you would really appreciate the effort. So here's my list minus the commentary: 1) The Joshua Tree (1987), 2) War (1983), 3) October (1981), 4) The Unforgettable Fire (1984), 5) All That You Can't Leave Behind (2000), 6) Boy (1980), 7) How to Dismantle an Atomic Bomb (2004), 8) Rattle and Hum (1988), 9) Achtung Baby (1991), 10) Zoozoo (1993), 11) Songs of Innocence (2014), 12) No Line on the Horizon (2009), 13) Pop (1997).

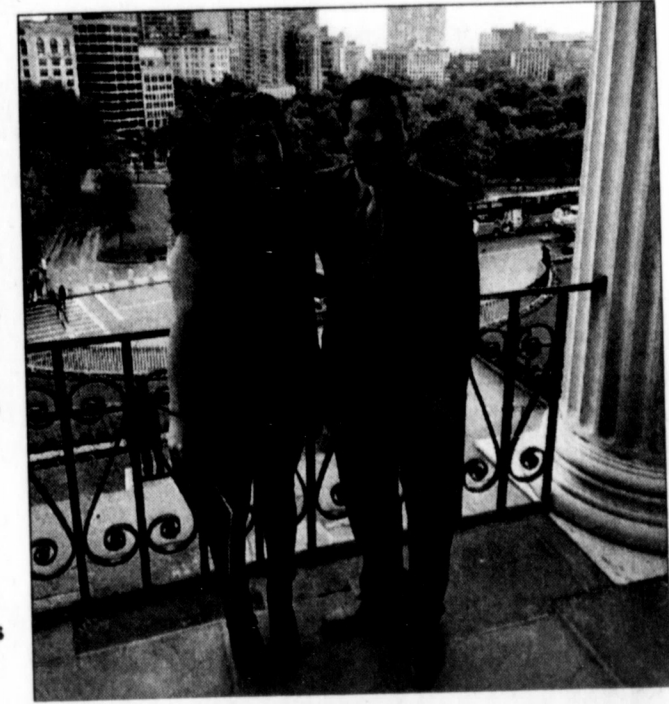

As always, thanks for reading, and one final graduation congratulation. Congratulations to the quiet little girl who would always stick her tongue out, every time she saw me. You've grown into an impressive and wonderful young woman, but I can't help but think of that little kid each time I see you. Best of luck in South Carolina Erin, may your adventures be amazing and may you have reason to smile each and every day.

Skippers win first-ever State Championship

Cohasset attack person Marina Longo liked her view in the lacrosse world after her team's Div. 2 State Championship game with Walpole.

The Skippers played impressive lacrosse in the postseason and showed Walpole how good they were in winning the Div. 2 State title, 14-6 over the Rebels at Nickerson Field at Boston University Saturday June 17.

"I feel like I am on top of the world," Longo said. "I have played with most of these girls since youth."

Seniors leave their mark

Two towns joined together to build lasting bonds

The Cohasset Mariner

May 22 marked the night of the Cohasset-Hull softball co-op team's senior game against East Bridgewater at Freedom Field in Cohasset.

The Cohasset-Hull high school softball co-op was created in 2013 where Cohasset played as the JV team, and Hull as varsity.

However, the following year, the two towns combined and the girls were thrown together with tryouts being held to decide who would make varsity, regardless of hometown. Cohasset and Hull girls ended up on the same team and there was an undeniable err of caution at first with the new territory and the unfamiliar faces.

However, at the first varsity practice the girls were instructed to pair up with a girl from the other town for warmups, and things soared from there.

Every girl on the team became amazing friends with one another as the season went on, and they quickly became a family

The girls quickly learned that softball truly isn't a sport for individuals and requires a communication between the players on the field which can only be achieved with the closeness they had developed.

The Cohasset Div. 2 State Championship game win over Walpole was as easy as "LBA."

Wicked Local Fab 4 Final rankings

By Chris McDaniel
cmcdaniel@wickedlocal.com

The high school lacrosse season came to an end on Saturday with five state championship games at Boston University's Nickerson Field.

New champions were crowned in four of the divisions, including our own Cohasset girls and Hingham boys.

By early May, Cohasset and Hingham showed themselves to be the top teams in the area. Both teams were dominant in the tournament, winning each playoff game by at least six goals.

They weren't the only teams to have superb seasons. The Hanover boys won their second consecutive Division 3 South

Sectional title by knocking off Cohasset.

The Norwell girls fell to Cohasset in the Division 2 South Sectional final.

On the boys side, Marshfield, Plymouth South, Scituate, Norwell, Rockland and Abington also won at least one tournament game.

On the girls side, Braintree, Hingham and Scituate picked up a playoff win.

Next week we'll release our end of the season awards. This week's player of the week will feature the top performances from the end of the season and the tournament.

Final records and last ranking in parenthesis.

Boys

1 Hingham (23-3, 1) — From the start of the season, it was state championship or bust for the Harbormen. Hingham lived up to the hype and was simply dominant during the tournament, winning every game by at least seven goals. The Harbormen brought home their first state championship since 2002 on Saturday. Hingham ended the year as winners of its last 13 games.

2 Hanover (16-5, 2) — The Indians went back-to-back as the Division 3 South Sectional champions but a comeback bid against eventual state champion Ipswich in the state semifinals fell short.

3 Cohasset (17-7, 4) — The Skippers were one of the youngest teams in the state this season. Cohasset will have one of the highest ceilings next season with their top eight scorers expected to return.

4 Marshfield (13-7, 3) — After a slow start to the season, the Rams came on strong with an 8-1 May. That lone loss came to Division 2 champion Hingham. Marshfield bowed out in the Division 1 South Sectional quarterfinals against Needham.

On the bubble: (Norwell 10-10), Scituate (10-8), Abington (14-4)

Players of the week

Jorday Williams, Soph., Plymouth South: Williams netted a hat trick to push the Eagles past Weymouth, 7-5, in a Division 1 South Sectional preliminary round game on May 31. The win was South's first ever in the tournament.

Abdullah Nassif, Sr., Hanover: Nassif started off the Indians' tournament run in fashion, netting eight goals to push the Indians past Rockland, 18-3, in the first round of the Division 3 South Sectionals on June 1.

Eddie Fettuccia, Soph., Norwell: Fettuccia will be a name to watch in 2018. The sophomore posted seven goals and three assists in two tournament games.

Ryan Donovan, Jr., Cohasset: Donovan netted six goals, four of which came in the first quarter, in a June 5 win over Abington.

Neil Calkin, Jr., Hanover: Calkin netted six goals and had two assists in Hanover's south semifinal win over Cardinal Spellman on June 7.

Jack Hennessey, Sr., Hingham: In the Division 2 South Sectional final against Bishop Feahan on June 9, Hennessey finished with four goals and five assists.

Way too early 2018 rankings

1 Hingham — The Harbormen will lose a bevy of key seniors, but there's plenty of players ready to step up. A move up to Division 1 will be a new challenge.

2 Cohasset — The Skippers are the favorite to win Division 3 South next year already.

3 Norwell — The Clippers put it together late this season with a young team. Norwell will be one of the most improved teams next spring.

4 Scituate — With Hingham moving up to Division 1, the Sailors will be one of the contenders in Division 2 South.

Girls

1 Cohasset (21-2, 1) — The greatest season in program history ended with a state title on Saturday. Cohasset's losses came against a team from Canada and a Division 1 power in Westwood. The Skippers were simply dominant this season.

2 Norwell (16-6, 2) — The Clippers were finally overtaken in the south by Cohasset after four consecutive sectional titles.

3 Braintree (16-4, 3) — The Wamps have taken some nice strides forward in recent years. Braintree nearly knocked off Wellesley in the Division 1 South Sectional quarterfinals.

4 Hingham (13-9, 4) — The Harbormen played one of the toughest schedules around and still made the tournament after dominating the Patriot League for the second consecutive year. Hingham is the team to beat in the league, but there's still progress to be made to crack into the tier of elite Division 1 teams.

Players of the week

Grace Reinold, Jr., Braintree: Reinold led the Wamps past Whitman-Hanson, 17-4, with seven goals in the first round of the Division 1 South Sectional on May 30.

Lulu Sweeney, Sr., Scituate: Sweeney scored seven goals as the Sailors defeated Archbishop Williams, 19-4, in the first round of the Division 2 South Sectionals on May 30.

Jane and Elle Hansen, Cohasset: The Hansen sisters were a nightmare for opponents to cover during the tournament. The Skippers averaged over 16 goals per game in the tournament.

Emily Hoar, Sr., Plymouth South: Hoar closed her career with an 11-point game against Dennis-Yarmouth on May 11. Hoar netted 56 goals and handed out 10 helpers this season.

Way too early 2018 rankings

1 Cohasset — As good as the Skippers were this season, they have the potential to be even better next year. That's a scary thought.

2 Norwell — You can rest assured that coach Kara Connelly is already game-planning ways to shut down Cohasset's Hansen sisters for next year. A Norwell team embracing the role of an underdog will not be fun for opponents.

3 Braintree — The Wamps will look to continue to catch up to the top programs in Division 1.

4 Marshfield — The Rams reached the tournament each of the past two seasons and will look to continue that trend.

The Fab Four Lacrosse Power Rankings are decided with the help of several factors: record, strength of schedule, performance against teams and margin of victory. The public schools in our coverage area include: Abington, Braintree, Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham, Marshfield, Norwell, Pembroke, Plymouth North, Plymouth South, Rockland, Scituate, Silver Lake, and Weymouth. Send nominations for players of the week to cmcdaniel@wickedlocal.com or reach him on Twitter @ChrisMcDaniel88.

our heads changed everything. After that we knew we were good enough. We knew we were better. We knew we were unstoppable. That's what we kept telling ourselves the rest of the playoffs. Newburyport, Old Rochester, we had the mindset that we could beat them and that's what made us win."

Longo said the feeling of winning was special. "Best feeling ever," she said. "That's the only way to put it."

Since she joined the Cohasset program in 2011, head coach Kully Reardon has been working hard to get Cohasset over the hurdle.

She said she has had a lot of help building the foundation.

"A lot of that is the youth program," Reardon said. "They've developed players like the Hansens, like Olivia (Coveney), like Julia Placek and Jane Cavanaugh. I've got to give the credit to them."

Reardon said her team has learned what it takes to win.

"It also helped that these girls know what to expect now," Reardon said. "They know not to be late for practice. They know their stick skills have to be on the money if they want to play and be on the team. Nothing's really a question anymore."

Reardon agreed with Longo about the effect of the first Norwell win.

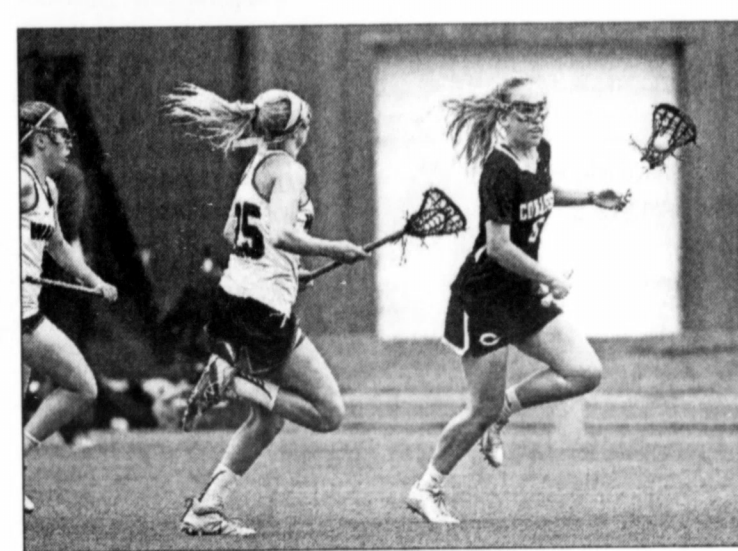

One of the most important events of the season was beating Norwell, a team the Skippers had never beaten.

"The floodgates sort of opened after that," Reardon said. "They believed. They believed in how good they were. They weren't just a little bit better. They believed in each other. The offense had so much confidence in the defense and the defense had so much confidence in them. When you believe in your team wholeheartedly good things are going to happen."

I grew up with all of them. We have played together for so long that we know each other so well on the field."

"We knew that we had to be ready when we came to this game," Cohasset sophomore middle Jane Hansen said. "We have had a big season winning the league (South Shore) and beating Norwell for the first time."

Cohasset's familiarity of what each other does was not the only reason that the Skippers took home the hardware as the best team in Div. 2.

They did a great job of controlling the pace of the game especially at the end of the first half when they rattled off four goals in a 4:22 span to build a 7-2 halftime lead.

Olivia Coveney, Elle Hansen, Molly Greer and Jane Hansen scored the goals for Cohasset to give them its 7-2 halftime lead. Still, with Walpole, no lead is safe, as they showed last year when they rallied from a big deficit in a 12-11 loss to Norwell in the state championship game.

"I feel when Coach (Kully) Reardon brought us in and told us to control the pace," Longo said about when the team took control for good. "She told us to calm down and to play the game the way that we have throughout the season. We were getting space, creating plays and it became a snowball affect."

"We hung in with our style of play," Cohasset junior middle Elle Hansen. "In the second half we started to push the pace even more."

"The pace that Cohasset set in the Div. 2 South Sectional allowed them to outscore the opposition, 71-19 to win the sectional including the championship game, 16-4 over Norwell."

They jumped out to a 6-2 lead on Newburyport before winning the state semifinal game, 11-4.

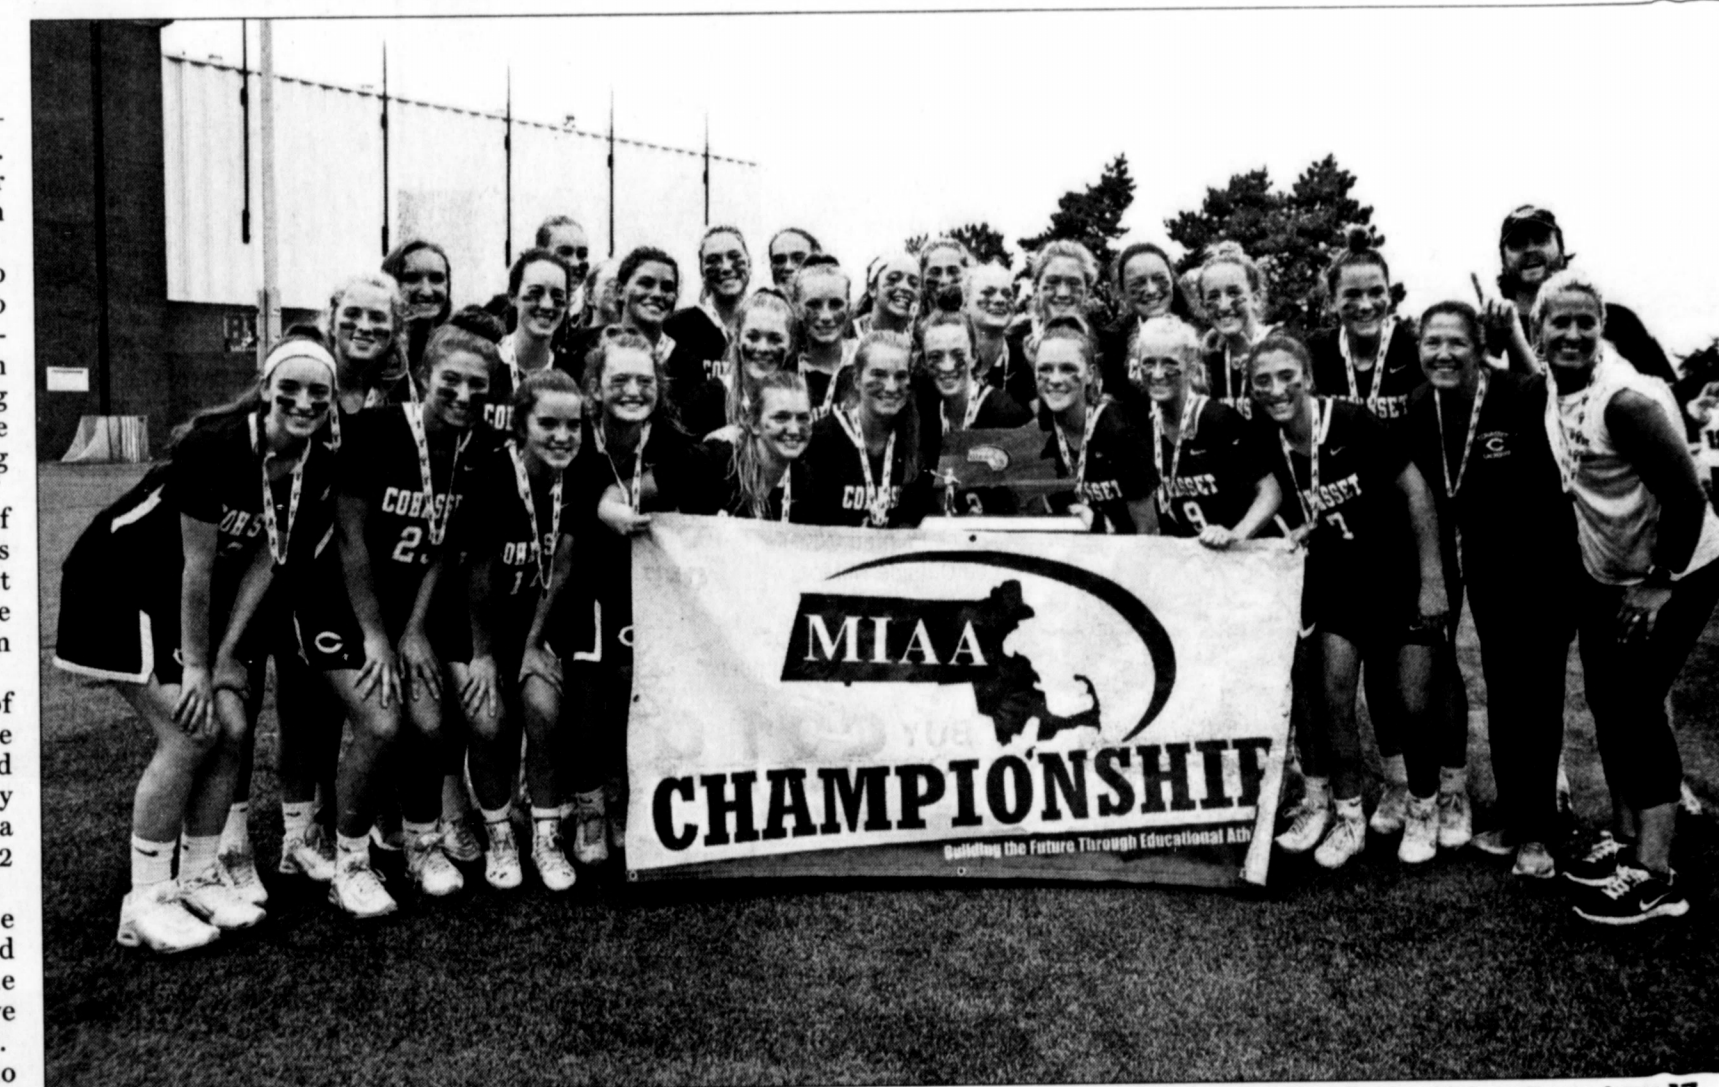

There was no way that Cohasset was going to take its foot off the accelerator in the second half even after Walpole's Allison Foley scored.

Cohasset maintained possession of the ball as at one point in the second half they held a 7-1 advantage on draws in the final 25 minutes. The Skippers had a 14-8 advantage for the game on draws.

"I know the girl from Walpole who took the draws, she is very good," Longo said. "Once we got the hang and where she was moving the ball we adjusted accordingly."

The Skippers forced Walpole into nine turnovers in the second half, 14 overall in getting more and more possessions that they took advantage of.

Skippers coach Kully Reardon made sure that her team would not slow down.

"We had a good end to the first half, but Walpole is so tough," Reardon said. "They were down by the same amount at halftime last year and came back against Norwell (in a 12-11 loss). We took a timeout early in the second half and told the girls that we can't let up. We were starting to let a little bit in the second half and I told them that I can not tolerate this."

You are too good of a team to let this happen."

The Cohasset defense which was outstanding in the tournament did not have as much pressure put on them because of their ability to possess the ball.

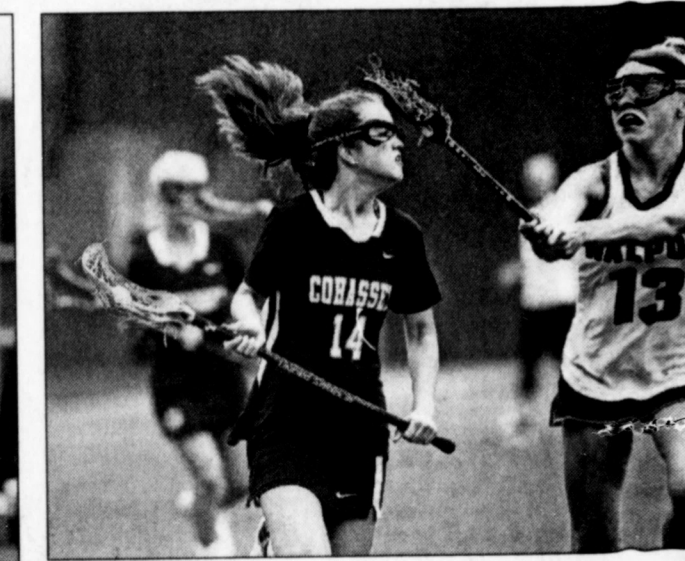

The Skippers were able to connect in the scoring area on restarts at a commanding pace. They had four of their seven restart goals in the first half.

Reardon felt that they were facing a tough Walpole goalie, Morgan Fontana and the best way that they could beat her was to be patient and shoot from in close.

The scoring output for Cohasset was not just centered around the Hansen sisters, but was spread out for them. Jane and Elle Hansen had combined for nine goals in the Newburyport win, but the sisters had only six goals between them in the finals. Elle scored four goals and had an assist, while Jane added two first half goals and an assist.

"We were connecting on our shots, the Walpole goalie was very good," Reardon said. "We were hitting her a lot and we needed to capitalize on our opportunities."

"When you get in closer on the goalie her weaknesses will show. I told the girls to get in close and cut down her angles. We had to get in close and fake. It was so nice to see Marina (Longo) and Julia (Placek) step up for us. We had a total team effort."

Placek scored three goals and assisted on another while Longo after setting up two goals in the first half scored twice in the second half.

YOUTH SOCCER

Cohasset U14 Boys Win Cranberry Youth Soccer League Championship

Sunday June 18, the Cohasset U14 boys soccer team defeated Scituate 3-2 to win the Cranberry Youth Soccer League championship.

The team, comprised of seventh and eighth graders, now moves on to the Massachusetts State Tournament of Champions to be played next weekend in Lancaster, MA.

The players took down the method and committed it to their wrists where they wrote down the letters LBA on them.

"It was a mantra that our coach (Kully Reardon) came up with before our Notre Dame game," Cohasset senior Marina Longo said about the LBA on the players wrists. "I means that we should be loose, but amped to play the game. We are staying loose, but we are super excited. That was the theme for us since that NDA game and it was the theme today for us."

The players took that philosophy to heart and when they were asked about "LBA" they responded with a dance type step and a smile about being happy to play the game.

The mantra was kept quiet by the girls and when they were asked most of the girls laughed and said, "that it was all right now since we won the state title to talk about it."

"We have only lost one game with LBA on our wrists," Cohasset senior defender Megan McElgunn said. "We have had it on our wrists since the Norwell game. The coach gave it to us and we took it and ran with it."

"I think that it got us going this season," Cohasset junior middle Elle Hansen said.

The "LBA" approach was something that Reardon smiles about when it is brought up.

She came about the loose but amped philosophy as a chance to keep her team relaxed in tough situations.

"It actually came from the boys lacrosse team at Middlebury High school and it means loose but amped," Reardon said. "We started it at the NDA game. You have to look down at times when the pressure gets tough. You want to be loose and totally ready to go."

The philosophy worked for Cohasset, which was loose and ready to go especially in the post season.

"It worked and there are times when girls need something to inspire them now and then," Reardon said. "and they need things to bond them as a team. This is one of the things that bonded them."

COHASSET REC

Indoor cycling is heating up for summer

Cohasset Recreation welcomes its newest instructors, Maurajane Rogers. Rogers joins instructors Jenn Schmidt and Casey Cameron as part of the Cohasset Recreation Center Indoor Cycling Summer Series—55R St. (directly behind the Red Lion Inn). There are 15 bikes and a sound system that will keep the music loud enough to inspire you. Register for the summer session or choose the drop in option at: cohassetrec.com.

Class is offered twice per week: Monday and Thursday morning. All cyclists are encouraged to bring a water bottle and a small towel to class. ■ 5:30-6:30 a.m.: Monday with Jen Schmidt ■ 5:45-6:45 a.m.: Thursday with Maurajane Rogers

Please note that the Indoor Cycling schedule has changed slightly for the summer with potential for more classes to be added in the fall. The classes listed above are the current classes for June, July, and August.

Schmidt has been a certified spin instructor for over 14 years and currently teaches at Scituate Racquet. Rogers is recently certified as an instructor and has been spinning for years. She is currently training for a full ironman competition in October. She encourages all levels to come spin with her.

Cameron, who taught classes this past spring at Cohasset Rec, will serve as a sub for both classes this summer.

Although the classes are early, this is by design. It gives everyone a chance to get their exercise done for the day and still have time to commute to work or get young ones off to camp, sailing, the beach, you name it. As the weeks progress so will each class, with more challenges added every session. Starting the series in the first week or two early allows everyone a base on which to build.

Indoor cycling is a great way to improve cardiovascular health while also burning calories with a full body and low impact workout. With a fee of only $10 for drop-ins, how can you afford to not give Cohasset Recreation's new Indoor Cycling classes a spin?

OBITUARIES

Obituaries appearing in this section are paid for and written by families, often through the services of a funeral director.

Susan Watrous

COHASSET – Susan "Sue" McAdams Watrous, 84, a longtime Cohasset resident, died peacefully in her sleep June 7, 2017, at the Harborview Center for Nursing and Rehabilitation.

She was born and raised in Fall River, the daughter of James C. McAdams and (Mary) Elizabeth H. McAdams. She graduated from Walnut Hill School and attended Wellesley College before marrying and raising her family. Sue went on to obtain a B.A. from Bridge-water State in 1975, as well as her certificate as a professional librarian, and worked at the Paul Pratt Memorial Library in Cohasset for 30 years.

She thoroughly enjoyed meeting people and talking about books, and made many friends through working at the library. She was thrilled that many of her "kids" from her early career spent as the children's librarian would stop and say hello, as the years passed.

Sue loved books, travel, music, movies, plays, museums and lively gatherings of friends and family.

She spent many hours on the water rowing her Alden shell. She also loved paddling her kayak in Little Harbor and in Westport, where her family vacationed each summer.

Sue enjoyed continuing her education auditing classes in Boston, and kept busy with activities such as Tai Chi, yoga and a brief fling with tap dancing.

Sue will be remembered for her wonderful laugh, love of life, sense of adventure, and independent spirit. She was a wonderful listener and drew people to her with her warm personality.

She is survived by her two daughters, Linda Seekins of Waterville, ME, and her fiancé,

John P. Grayken

COHASSET – John P. Grayken, age 86, of Cohasset, died June 18, 2017.

He was the beloved husband of the late Phyllis R. Grayken; father of Susan, Mary, John Jr. and Victoria. Also survived by 10 grandchildren and 6 great-grandchildren.

Beloved husband of Barbara (Smith) Ireland. Loving father of Pamela Ireland of Cohasset, Mass., and James Ireland, Jr., his wife, Tracey, and their children, Jack, Sam and Kate, of Mission Viejo, Calif. Son of the late James A. and A. Irene (Robinson) Ireland. Brother of the late Eunice Stalter. Also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Jim enjoyed a 50-year career in the golf industry first with The MacGregor Golf Company in both New Jersey and Cincinnati, Ohio. In 1974 joined Titleist/Foot-Joy Worldwide in Brockton, Mass. until his retirement in 1998. His expertise spanned marketing, sales management, product development, tournament planning, advertising and player relations. He was instrumental in guiding many young players through their early golfing careers, particularly through company sponsorships.

In the 1970s, Jim was one of the founders and President of the Golf Manufacturers and Distributors Association. He started the PGA Merchandisers of the Year Award, established in 1978. He and Dick Tarlow, then President of Foot-Joy, created the PGA Assistant Professional Championship, held in the early days at Thorny Lea Golf Club, Brockton, Mass. and later at La Quinta at PGA West, in La Quinta, Calif. Forty consecutive years attending The Masters golf tournament in Augusta, Ga. were a particular point of pride in Jim's career.

In 1999 Jim became the 9th recipient of the Ernie Sabayrac Award for Lifetime Contributions to the golf industry. He was celebrated by over 200 of his colleagues and his family. He personally knew each of the earlier recipients, who included long-time colleagues as well as childhood friends.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to Resident Care Fund of Linden Ponds, Attn. Philanthropy Manager, 203 Linden Ponds Way, Hingham, MA 02043. See www.Keohane.com for directions and online condolences or call 781-335-0045.

Sudoku

Level: Challenging

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

HOROSCOPE

Salome's Stars

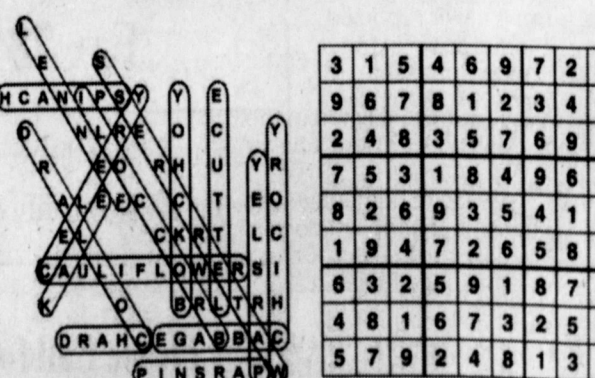

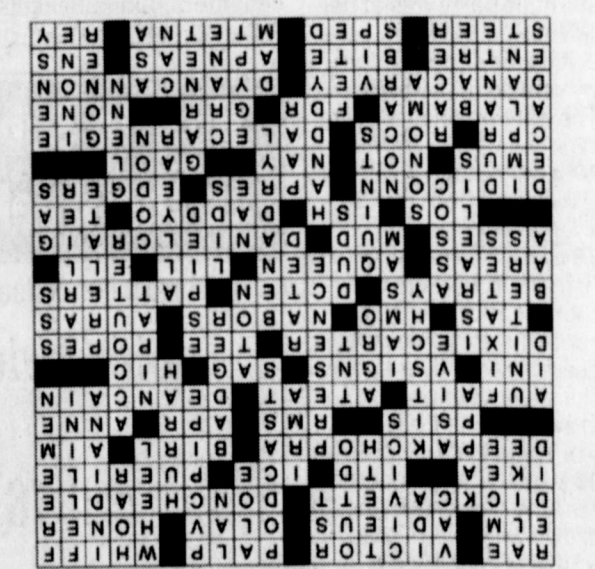

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Information you need might be coming in sporadically, but at least what you're getting is valuable. Continue to wait until more is available before acting on that career move.
TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You continue on an upbeat cycle, and with that strong Taurus energy you should see favorable results from your hard work. A pleasant surprise awaits you in your private life.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A misunderstanding needs more time to be worked out. Don't give up on it just yet. Remain open to providing explanations, if called for. Another friend offers good advice.
CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Fast action can correct a seemingly minor problem that has taken on some unexpectedly difficult aspects. Stay with it until it's resolved. News on a more positive note is due soon.
LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some snags could cause delays in those plans you're eager to see put into operation. But be patient. The Clever Cat will soon have good reason to celebrate a job well done.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Be careful not to let that Virgo sensitivity dissuade you from being the hardheaded realist you should be at this time. Your goals are in sight. Stay focused on them.
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A more positive aspect opens up, allowing you to make some important changes in a personal situation. Remember to seek balance and avoid extremes as you proceed.
SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good week to get out and enjoy the fine times you missed while you were so deep in those workaday projects. Be sure to share it with that special person.
SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Work and play are in balance this week. However, expect news that could tip things toward the workplace for quite a while. But all to a good end.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're more productive on the job than you have been in some time. That's good. But be careful not to overlook some situations developing in your private life.
AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You've been doing a lot for others (as usual). But now it's time to focus on your needs, including finally going on that long-delayed trip you've been hoping to make.
PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's all smoothly going on 'twixt you and that very special person in your life. But a colleague causes some disruption on the job that you might be called on to help settle.
BORN THIS WEEK: You are sensitive to the needs of others. But you're no pushover. You would make a fine teacher, psychologist or minister.
